

Agnieszka Czaplicka-Kotas is an innovation specialist in The Highway to Technology and Innovation Institute and PhD student at the Faculty of Management in the AGH University of Science and Technology. In 2016 she was awarded the competition organised by the Polish Chinese Business Council under the patronage of The Ministry of Science and Higher Education. Her scientific interests are the circular economy, environmental management, environmental products and service and university social responsibility. She took part in scientific projects. She has experience in realisation of EU projects, from H2020, KIC Raw Materials, and in the organisation of conferences and workshops.